FROM FAR MONTANA.

In a letter renewing her subscription to The Tribune Miss Minnie Yockey writes of country life in Montana as follows:

GRANT, P. O. MONTANA.

Dec. 4, 1901.

We have been having fine weather until today but as yet it is not very cold. It snows a little nearly every night here on the prairie, but up in the mountains is considerable snow.

The cattle are coming in to their winter quarters. The cow boys are kept busy riding in the hills and putting them in their respective fields.

We have been listening to about 500 calves bawling, as it is weaning time now. One man is kept busy feeding hay to the beef steers—are feeding the 200 head sold this year at 10c per head a day for four months.

This ranch yields an average of 1000 tons of hay a year, and is beautifully situated. On every side you can see mountains and some peaks have snow the year round. The mountains close by, just south of the house, is covered with snow and on one side of the peak snow lies until after 4th of July.

Horse Prairie Creek is our main source of water irrigating and runs lengthwise through the ranch. We are twenty miles from railroad station but three miles from stage station and postoffice, where I go horse back two or three times a week. I like the west although it is rather lonely sometimes, as our neighbors are few and far apart. The nearest is two miles from here.

Thanksgiving I went twenty miles to a ball at a little village in the mountains, Baunack City, at one time quite a noted mining camp. The old court house is used as a hotel and the other buildings are log and most of them have dirt roofs. In going there from here you do not pass a house on the way; you see sage brush, hills and snow, and the big bluffs.

The Lemhi, Idaho, Indian reservation is not far from here and when I first came I felt a little timid when I would meet any of them. Sometimes they ask me where I am going. I "sava" now quite well. They often come to the house and in the spring the squaws and their papooses come and I learned that when you give to an Indian, they never divide; so you must take care to serve each alike.

The stage coach goes by here, one each way and every day, and also the many freight wagons going from Red Rock to Salmon. Sometimes there are three or four trail wagons and often eight or ten.

Dillon is our nearest shopping place and we were there recently. Have made several trips there, but only once did we drive through a distance of fifty miles. The scenery was something grand, but I cannot describe it, so will not undertake such a task.

We have some beautiful dwellings in this out of the way place. One very beautiful house is twelve miles further up than we are, making them thirty-two miles from station. Some of the other houses are log and have dirt roofs, but they are cozy and comfortable. Our elevation is about 6,000 feet.

Men's labor is high here and there are quite a number of easterners here and I hardly think you could drive them out of the country.

I trust I may be amongst the Plymouthites again some time and that I may see many of the home faces, friends and acquaintances.

Knox Has Another Fire.

Knox suffered another disastrous fire Sunday evening in the business part of the town, resulting in a loss of $50,000. The fire started in the Keminger saloon and was beyond control before the alarm could be given. The First National bank and the Grand Hotel were threatened but the direction of the wind saved them. Dr. Henderson's drug store was burned to the ground. The losses include three saloons, two restaurants, a barbershop, a drug store, a dwelling and five other small business rooms. During the conflagration several attempts at burglary were detected.

Those Who Endure

The pains of rheumatism should be reminded that a cure for this disease may be found in Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, as the One True Blood Purifier, neutralizes the acid which causes rheumatism. That is why it absolutely cures when liniments and other outward applications fail to give permanent relief.

Turkeys

Bear in mind for us to handle turkeys for Christmas markets we want them to commence coming in now, the sooner the better and up to the 18th of December, after that time gobbles will not sell so well. Yet we will be in the market right along for all kinds of poultry at full market value. We promise you 6c for good fat turkeys (except old gobbles) until December 18th.

If you can hold back chickens until after the holidays, we advise you to do so, as it is now turkey time. Don't feed your poultry the day you bring it in. Rush your turkeys in as fast as you can this week.

Columbia Disc Graphophone.

Nothing has occurred, in years, in connection with the talking machine business, that has caused more of a sensation than the recent announcement that the Columbia Phonograph company was to put a disc graphophone on the market. The fact has probably been lost sight of that when the graphophone was invented it was brought forward in two forms—as a disc machine on which the recording stylus make a zig zag cut, and as a machine using cylinders on which the recording stylus makes a straight cut of varying depth. These machines each had their advantages and the question as to which was the better one to manufacture was left to the public for decision, with the result that the demand for the one using cylindrical records grew from a small beginning to enormous proportions, while there was practically no call for the disc type. Thus, for years, the model of the last named instrument has awaited the possible coming of the day of its utilization. Graphophones using the cylindrical records have, in the meantime, been sold in all parts of the world, by the hundreds of thousands and the art of the record making has been carried, year by year, to a higher point of excellence, until the Columbia record of today is among the perfected products of human ingenuity.

In the years that have been passing while the graphophone has been changing from a crude talking machine to the wonderful instrument that is now universally accepted as the best, if not the only satisfactory machine in use, other manufacturers, recognizing the impossibility of making progress in competition with the graphophone and the world renowned Columbia records, have brought out, under various names, imperfect disc machines and while their sale has been limited, sufficient interest in them, with the constant increase in the army of talking machine users, has finally been shown to warrant the Columbia Phonograph company in supplying a first class machine of the disc description. It is built on more scientific lines than the disc machines of other makers and is superior to them in every respect. Instead of being a hybrid thing, it is a graphophone, with all the advantages of that well known and highly valued instrument, with its mechanism skillfully adapted to the use of indestructible disc records, similar to, though far better than those used by other disc machines.

The facilities of the Columbia Phonograph

Company for manufacturing graphophones of every conceivable kind, as well as records of surpassing merit are so far in advance of those of their little rivals, that the mere announcement that they will now furnish a disc graphophone has brought them advance orders from all points of the compass. With this entrance into a field in which small concerns have accomplished a little but not very much, the Columbia Phonograph Company takes possession of the entire business, having won its commanding position by deserving it and by right of having been the first in the field with every improvement that tended to advance the art.

TELEPHONES ON ST. BERNARD

Romance of the Dogs Knocked Silly by Modern Invention.

Mr. John W. Gates of the United States steel corporation tells a story about a friend of his who went into the Alps last summer. "My friend began the ascent to the hospice of St. Bernard," said Mr. Gates. "When about an hour's climb from the pass he was stopped by a dense fog. He waited gleefully, expecting to be rescued by the dogs, and so he was able to come back to us with a thrilling story. The dogs did not come, however, and the fog partly lifted, so he resumed his climb and finally arrived at the hospice, where he was welcomed warmly by the brothers. His first question was: 'Why did you not send the dogs out in so dangerous a fog?' He nearly dropped from his chair when one of the brothers said: 'You did not telephone us.' 'Telephone you?' he ejaculated. 'Yes,' was the answer. 'You see, shelters have been built all along the climb, and each shelter has been provided with a telephone. If a fog comes up all one has to do is to go to the nearest shelter and telephone. We immediately send a man and dog to that shelter. The dog carries bread, cheese and wine. As we know at just what shelter the climber is not time is lost in looking for him.' Mr. Gates says his friend was so disgusted with having his romantic notions knocked in the head that he left Switzerland at once.

THE PEOPLE KNEW HIM.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)
George Washington made and sold flour, and every barrel of flour in the market branded "G. Washington, Mount Vernon," sold without delay. No question was ever raised as to quality or weight.

Benson's Plaster gives relief on its reputation everywhere. All the buyer wants to be certain of is that the plaster offered him really is Benson's, and not a worthless imitation of it or substitute for it.

A plaster is the best form of external remedy, and Benson's is the best plaster; 5,000 physicians and druggists, and a multitude of people no man can number, have settled that. "You can trust it," they say.

Coughs, colds, lameness, humors, muscular stiffness and rheumatism, troubles of the liver and kidneys, influenza or grip, pneumonia, and all other diseases open to external treatment, are at once relieved and cured by Benson's Plaster.

Do not assume that Ballard's, Capelin or Strengthening plasters are "just as good as" Benson's. They are vastly inferior.—No other plaster is as good as Benson's.

In competition with the best-known plasters of Europe and America, Benson's have received fifty-five highest awards.

For sale on any drug store or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.
